The President and His 'Flagship' — Agrees to Delay Family Program

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Hoping to save the "flagship" of his domestic programs, President Nixon agreed Friday to a Democratic compromise which would postpone for a year his $4.1 billion family assistance program while it is tested.

In a special statement, reinforced by emotional appeals from his advisors, Nixon said he was "gravely troubled" that Congress would fail to act on his program, which for the first time would guarantee a minimum $1,600 income to families with children.

"The present legislation is too far advanced, the need for reforms is too great, for this to be permitted to happen," he said.

Nixon's move was a dramatic attempt to pry his program, already being touted in Republican campaign oratory, from the Senate Finance Committee, where it has languished since April 16, with some of the most vocal opposition coming from his own party. It passed the House earlier on an overwhelming vote.

The compromise, proposed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, a former secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department in the Kennedy administration, would delay the start of the program until Jan. 1, 1972.

During the intervening year, beginning Jan. 1, 1971, the administration would set up three pilot test projects in a farming area, an urban area and a nonindustrial area to tool up the national program. Vermont and Arkansas were considered two likely starting points.

Dr. Patrick J. Moynihan, Nixon's advisor and the White House architect of the plan, termed it the "most important piece of domestic legislation in the last 35 years. We don't want to see it go down the drain." He added that Nixon has called it "my flagship."

The legislation would establish for the first time a floor beneath the income of all families with children. A family of four would receive a minimum of $2,464, including food stamps. Based on a sliding scale, a family could receive an income up to $3,920, which still is below the subsistence line.

After a grueling week, a tired Nixon apparently was ready to relax. His two friends, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, of Key Biscayne, Fla., and multimillionaire New Yorker Robert H.

Abplanalp, arrived here for the weekend to keep the President company.

Meanwhile, faced at last with a clear choice between guns and butter, the Senate has chosen both.

A 42 to 31 roll call vote Friday doomed chances of a substantial congressional cut in defense spending this year to make up for increases Congress voted earlier in spending for health, welfare and education.

With the Nixon administration opposing further military austerity in time of war, a bipartisan coalition of Pentagon critics was unable to muster support for its proposal to fix a $66 billion ceiling on the Pentagon's budget. The amendment was offered by Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md.

Six GIs Are Killed In Day-Long Fight

(Combined Wire Services)

Communist troops ambushed a U. S. infantry convoy on a mountainous highway in the central highlands Friday, touching off a day-long battle that cost the worst American casualties in ground fighting in five weeks.

The U.S. command said today six Americans were killed and 26 wounded. Two Communists were known killed and one was taken prisoner. Field reports said most of the casualties were inflicted on a rifle platoon of the 4th Infantry Division, which reinforced the convoy defenders in a helicopter airlift.

The command also said four other Americans were killed and one was wounded when a UH1 Huey helicopter gunship was shot down near the ambush site northeast of An Khe, 240 miles northwest of Saigon in the central highlands.

It was the fifth helicopter crash this week. A total of 40 Americans were killed or missing and believed dead in the five crashes. The worst crash was Thursday when a big troop-carrying CH47 Chinook helicopter was hit by Communist fire.

In Cambodia, Communist troops launched an attack six miles from Phnom Penh Friday, just hours after Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, on an Asian tour, left the capital. A military spokesman said the Communists attacked the village of Moat Krasas Krao late Friday and that sporadic fighting continued this morning.

In Saigon, the military spokesmen said the deaths in the fighting around the ambushed convoy were the highest in a single ground action in South Vietnam since July 22, when 12 GIs were killed in an ambush near Combat Base Ripcord—an outpost subsequently abandoned by the Americans.

Spokesmen said the 4th Infantry Division convoy was traveling along the highway when it was hit by small arms, automatic weapons and rocket-propelled grenade fire. The infantrymen called in helicopter gunships and fighting went on throughout the day.

Former Vice President Humphrey supports Senate measure to halt U.S. battlefield actions in Vietnam . . . Story Page 14.

The U.S. command also reported three Americans killed and two wounded in several clashes about 82 miles north of Saigon Friday.

Misdirected U.S. mortar fire Friday landed in a hamlet near Xuan Loc during a predawn fight between Communists and U.S. 25th Infantry Division troops, U.S. spokesmen said. Three Vietnamese civilians were killed and 13 wounded.

Vice President Agnew, meanwhile, has assured Thai leaders that he will "leave no stone unturned" in efforts to overturn congressional efforts to curb U.S. aid in Southeast Asia. Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today.

Thanat said at a news conference that while the majority of the American people and the Nixon administration back U.S. efforts, "there are certain elements which would like nothing better than to push Southeast Asia into Communist hands."

He charged that these elements "want chaos and want to see complete failure of the Nixon Doctrine," under which the United States would help Asian nations defend themselves and help their neighbors.

"The vice president assured the Thai prime minister that he will leave no stone unturned to bring about an effective and prompt and adequate implementation of the Nixon Doctrine," Thanat added.

The foreign minister said Thailand would consider sending troops to Cambodia "only if the threat becomes acute."

"We shall avoid to the maximum extent possible a direct introduction (of troops) into Cambodia," he said.

The foreign minister gave no names in his mention of "certain elements" in the U.S. Congress.

Asked if he was referring to Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and other antiwar leaders, Thanat replied: "You are very well informed people. There is no need for me to indulge in personalities."

Thanat said the talks with Agnew dealt with principles, rather than specifics. In an earlier news conference for Thai reporters, the foreign minister said Agnew promised he would do what he could to assure that U.S. aid for Thailand is maintained at the present level.

CAMBODIAN TROOPS AFTER FIGHTING COMMUNISTS NEAR CAPITAL (UPI Telephoto)

Two Fatalities and Electrocution

By JON POWERS

TOWN OF NEW PALTZ

Three violent deaths were investigated by Mid-Hudson area police Friday, including a one-car crash on the New York State Thruway in the Town of New Paltz that resulted in Ulster County's 28th traffic fatality of the year.

A 17-year-old Newburgh youth was electrocuted while taking a bath in his home and a Long Island woman was killed when she was struck by a car in the Greene County Village of Hunter. In other incidents reported to The Freeman:

Runar Carp, 71, of Yonkers, was killed near Thruway mile post 74.2 at about 2 p.m. Friday, according to troopers stationed in Newburgh. Carp, traveling alone at the time of the accident, was driving in a northbound direction when his auto went off the right shoulder of the superhighway, entered a ditch and overturned. State Police said Carp was ejected from the auto.

Carp was Ulster County's sixth traffic fatality of the month. Last year's 28th highway death occurred July 27 when a 22-year-old Ellenville man struck a tree while operating a motorcycle in that village.

Newburgh city police reported that Patrick Richmond of 78 Williams Street was taking a bath at his third floor apartment at that address when a radio perched on the edge of the bathtub fell into the water. Richmond was pronounced dead at St. Luke's Hospital with cause of death listed as electric shock.

State Police from the Leeds station in Catskill reported that a 22-year-old Connecticut man is being held in Greene County Jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated after his auto went out of control on Route 23-A in Hunter and fatally struck a woman walking along the side of the road.

James M. Francis of Belden Terrace, Simsbury, Conn., was reportedly traveling east on Route 23-A when he failed to negotiate a curve. The car, police said, went off the right side of the road, struck several guard rails and then skidded back to the edge of the roadway where it struck the pedestrian.

Killed was Rose Tully of Uniondale. She was pronounced dead upon arrival at Greene County Memorial Hospital. Cause of death is being withheld pending an autopsy.

Francis also was cited by police for driving at a speed too fast for conditions and carrying an open container of alcoholic beverage in his vehicle.

Highland State Police, meanwhile, investigated a one-car crash on Route 32 in the Town of Esopus late Friday night that resulted in minor injuries to four persons.

A car operated by William Katsas, 26, of Route 32, Highland Mills, reportedly attempted to pass another southbound vehicle during a heavy rainstorm when his car skidded on the wet pavement, went off the left side of the road, struck two trees and overturned twice before coming to rest on its roof at the base of a 20 foot embankment.

An eight-year-old Rosendale girl sustained minor injuries when the car in which she was riding was struck by an untended vehicle that rolled down an inclined driveway and onto Route 32 in the Town of Esopus early Friday evening, according to police.

Althea Mareno sustained cuts of the right knee after the car operated by her father, Vincent Mareno, collided with the untended vehicle and then crashed into a mailbox and shrubbery along the highway. Lynette VanDyke, 17, and Rene VanDyke, both of 12 Stuyvesant Street, Kingston, sustained head, back and neck injuries when the car in which they were riding left DeWitt Lake Road in Eddyville and crashed into several bushes early this morning. The driver of the car told police that he was forced off the road by an unidentified vehicle.

Call Napanoch Chaplain 'Threat' to Institution

NAPANOCH to inadequate medical care and

A Roman Catholic chaplain who reportedly testified about bad conditions at the Eastern New York Correctional Facility here has been criticized by state prison officials as "a threat to the safety and security of the institution," the Associated Press said today.

A group of prisoners had charged that the death of prisoner Lewis Hankins, 21, of Brooklyn, last Sunday from a reported heart attack, was due demanding to meet with Superintendent Maurice Blow of the Napanoch facility.

The Rev. William O'Brien said Blow refused to meet with them. A spokesman for the warden said the meeting had taken place.

In addition to characterizing Father O'Brien as a "threat" to the Napanoch facility, State Correction Commissioner Paul D. McGinnis ordered the priest to confine his visits to the prison chapel and to speak only to Roman Catholic inmates.

After being criticized as a minutes, but he later died. According to Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, Hankins died of an attack brought on by a "congenital heart ailment." It was said that the victim had a medical history of heart ailment.

Meanwhile, Rep. Edward I. Koch (D-Manhattan) called on the State Senate Crime and Correction Committee to enlarge its current investigation of Manhattan's Tombs prison to include all penal institutions in the state. He also called for an investigation of the heart attack case at Napanoch.

Request of People's Army Rejected by Legion Head

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jamboree, a group organizing

The national commander of the American Legion says it would be "a waste of time" to discuss Vietnam and other issues with some youthful dissenters and has rejected a request to put such a discussion on the agenda of the Legion convention.

J. Milton Patrick of Skiatook, Ore., was responding to a request by the People's Army

I don't think they could sell me

An estimated 14,000 Legionnaires are on hand for the convention and an estimated 13,000 young dissenters are in the area, most of them at rock music festivals near here.

Some 4,700 National Guard troops were activated and another 1,300 were placed on alert. Organizers of the People's Army Jamboree have said their objective is to confront the Legion because of its hawkish stand on the Vietnam war.

The Jamboree has scheduled events that include unauthorized use of two city parks, two downtown rallies and use of Lair Hill and Duniway parks outside the times specified in city permits.

The first rally was scheduled today at Delta Park, where city officials have allowed the group overnight use of facilities. Early Friday evening there were about 50 persons at the park.

JUST IN CASE—The first units of Oregon National Guardsmen arrive at Portland Air Base for American Legion Convention emergency duty. Their commander, Brig. Gen. David Baum dispatched the first units to their assigned duty under order of Gov. Tom McCall. He also put out the word, "Relax, there is no reason to panic." (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Tigers Suspend Denny for Dousing Writer

A MILESTONE — Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants became the second active pitcher in the major leagues to win 200 games by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-1. Marichal pitched an 8-hitter, striking out five, in winning his sixth consecutive victory. Jim Bunning is the only other active pitcher with 200 victories. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger bad boy Denny McLain, shocked at the suspension imposed on him Friday night by General Manager Jim Campbell, lashed out at him for "never standing behind his players," and said, "I got down on my knees and begged to be traded."

"I don't believe it. I don't believe it. I don't believe it," moaned the 26-year-old pitcher as he leaned back against a car in the darkened Tiger Stadium parking lot about midnight. "I was just clowning around. That was easy to see," he explained. About 45 minutes earlier Campbell suspended McLain "for an indefinite period not to exceed 30 days for conduct unbecoming a professional baseball player." Campbell's action followed a telephone call from baseball writer Watson Spolstra of the Detroit News who complained that before the Tigers' 6-2 loss to Oakland McLain had dumped a pail of water on him in the clubhouse. It was the second suspension of water on Jim Hawkins, baseball writer for the Detroit Free Press. "It was a setup — all a big joke," McLain told Larry Paladino, Associated Press sports writer. "You were going to get it too, and so was Rich Shook from UPI."

Campbell called Denny into his office after the game, with manager Mayo Smith in attendance. "I'll tell you what I did and this is the truth," Denny said, running his hands through his thick blond hair. "I got down on my hands and knees in Campbell's office and begged to be traded because of the way he has handled team matters in the last three or four years."

"He never stands behind his players. I'll tell you what, Mr. Miller is going to do something about this."

The two-time Cy Young Award winner, who won 31 games in 1968 and 24 last season, said he planned to telephone Marvin Miller, executive director of the Baseball Players Association, and see if Miller could get the suspension lifted. Since his return McLain has started 15 games. He has a 3-5 record and 4.65 earned-run average, giving up 19 home runs in the span.

"Do you think Campbell would have suspended me if we were three games out? Hell no! But, what are we, about 17 games out now?"

With a month of the season remaining Detroit is in third place in the American League East, 15 1/2 games behind front-running Baltimore and four behind New York.

Kuhn was on vacation, but in New York a spokesman for the commissioner said Kuhn would probably look into the matter since he had warned McLain at the time of his reinstatement to be on his good behavior.

In his official statement Campbell said: "McLain has been suspended without salary for an indefinite period not to exceed 30 days for conduct unbecoming a professional baseball player."

"How long do you think you'll be out?" Denny was asked. "Thirty days," he replied before being told of Campbell's "not to exceed 30 days" wording.

"Not to exceed 30 days? Man, he sure leaves himself an easy out doesn't he," said the emotionally keyed up pitcher.

"Who knows? I may not even miss a start."

McLain was scheduled to start Sunday against Oakland. Spolstra explained his drubbing: "I don't usually go in the clubhouse before a game but the guard at the door said Denny wanted to see me."

"I went over there and we talked for a while. He said he didn't like the headline in the paper the other day but my story was okay. We shook hands and he said, 'We've always been good friends and we're still good friends.'"

"Keep your chin up, I told him, and then turned and walked away. That's when he dumped the water on me. My coat is still wet."

McLain apparently was somewhat upset about news stories after he lost Wednesday night's game to California.

The News headline said: "Denny-bood, cusses ump."

200th for Marichal

By United Press International
Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants became the second active pitcher in the major leagues to win 200 games by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-1, Friday night.

Marichal tossed an eight-hitter that included a seventh-inning homer by Manny Sanguillen. Jim Bunning is the only other active pitcher with 200 victories.

Marichal became the eighth pitcher in major league history to win as many as 200 games in 11 seasons or less. The others who won as many were Grover Alexander, Lefty Grove, Carl Hubbell, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, George Mullin and Eddie Plank. The Giants scored a run in the second, another in the fourth and clinched the game with three runs in the sixth.

Joe Morgan doubled home a run with two out in the third inning to snap a 1-1 tie and Wade Blasingame made it stand up as the Houston Astros beat the New York Mets and Tom Seaver, 2-1.

Blasingame, who has a 9-0 record against the world champions, pitched his first complete game since being called up from Oklahoma City in the middle of the season. The left-hander, who won only three games in the last two years, all against the Mets, pitched a four-hitter. The Mets scored their run in the second on a triple by Donn Clendenon and a single by Ron Swoboda.

Loser Tom Seaver, 17-10, gave up only three hits but the Astros put them together in the third inning for their runs.

Boots Day singled home the winning run with two out in the 10th inning as the Montreal Expos defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3, and gave reliever Claude Raymond his fifth win. The Reds tied the score at 3-3 in the eighth when Pete Rose singled and Bobby Tolan hit his 12th homer. Montreal jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the second on Bob Bailey's 23rd homer and added two more runs in the sixth.

Larry Bowa's sixth-inning steal of home and the clutch pitching of Billy Wilson and Dick Selma enabled the Philadelphia Phillies to defeat the Atlanta Braves, 5-2. Bowa, who stole three bases, gave the Phillies an insurance run at the expense of reliever Hoyt Wilhelm after the Braves scored twice in the top of the sixth to knock out winner Chris Short and make the score 3-2. Philadelphia hit four straight singles and a sacrifice fly to score three times in the fifth.

Joe Torre bombed a 410-foot homer to center field to open the ninth and rookie Jerry Reuss yielded only two hits to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Bill Sudakis collected both hits off the 21-year-old Reuss.

Ron Santo walked with the bases full to force in one run and pitcher Ferguson Jenkins singled in two more as the Cubs rallied for five runs in the San Diego Padres 8-4. Santo's walk tied the score at 3-3 and Johnny Callison hit a sacrifice fly to drive in the go-ahead run. After an intentional walk filled the bases again, in the second on four hits and a sacrifice fly.

Jenkins cracked his two-run hit to boost the score to 6-3. The Padres jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the second on four hits and a sacrifice fly.

Campaneris slugged his 18th homer for the A's off the Tigers' Mickey Lolich, 12-15.

Rico Petrocelli cracked three hits including a homer and Reggie Smith also homered for the Red Sox. Bill Melton had a two-run shot for the White Sox.

Lou Piniella drilled a two-run blast, giving the Royals their second-game victory after the Senators' Dick Bosman had stopped Kansas City on five hits in the opener.

It was only Oakland's second triumph in 12 starts. Campy and Marty Pattin tossed a four-hitter at the Orioles in the opener before Don Buford powered a grand slam homer, capping a five-run Orioles' sixth inning in the second game, gaining a split with the Brewers.

Gene Tenace drove in three runs and "Blue Moon" Odom scattered four hits in 7-13 innings as the A's got to within seven games of the Twins in the West.

Bradshaw Dazzles The Giants, 21-6

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Quarterback Terry Bradshaw counted the $84 in cash he got from the Pittsburgh Steelers after the exhibition victory over the New York Giants.

Is he worth it? "I don't know. Not yet. I just got to keep working," the rookie sensation smiled.

If Bradshaw, the top draft choice in the National Football League, doubts he's worth that paltry sum—and he knows bet- there are others who are sure of his value.

The blond quarterback ripped apart the Giants secondary completing 15 of 23 passes for 244 yards and threw a 37-yard touchdown pass as the Steelers mowed down New York 21-6 Friday night in a preseason game. It was the first football game ever at the new Three Rivers Stadium.

"He moved the ball pretty well," Coach Chuck Noll understated.

In Friday night's other exhibition game, the Washington Redskins capitalized on Buffalo Bills errors for a 27-0 victory. The Redskins got touchdowns on short runs by Charley Harra-way and Bob Brunet, and a 19-yard Frank Ryan-to-Jerry Smith pass.

Eight games are in the offing tonight—Baltimore at Miami, Kansas City at Atlanta, Chicago at St. Louis, Cleveland at Cincinnati, Dallas at Houston, Los Angeles at San Diego, Boston vs. New Orleans at Jackson, Miss., and San Francisco vs. Denver at Eugene, Ore.

The Steelers now have won two straight exhibition games after an opening loss to Miami. Last year they were 1-13 and that disastrous season is the reason why they had a chance to get Bradshaw.

Bradshaw did his thing against a Giant team missing starting quarterback Fran Tarkenton, and running backs Ernie Koy and Joe Morrison.

The Steelers scored with 6:42 gone in the first quarter after Rookie Hubie Bryant returned a punt 45 yards to the Giants 20 and Preston Pearson went over from the three four plays later.

Bradshaw led the Steelers on a 90-yard drive the next time his club got the ball, capped by a 37-yard scoring pass to rookie Ron Shanklin near the back of the end zone.

It's Gretel For the Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Bill Fesq was hailed today as the hero of Australia's victory over France to become the challenger to the United States in the famed America's Cup yachting race next month.

Fesq is the navigator for Gretel II, the Australian yacht out of Sydney, which on Friday completed a 4-0 sweep over the French Boat, France, in their best of 7 series to determine the challenger against either Intrepid or Valiant of America.

Sailing through peaseoup fog that limited visibility to less than 100 yards, Fesq plotted an accurate course to every marker on the 24.3-mile course while the French boat became lost in the thick fog.

Nearly 45 minutes after the Gretel had finished, the France gave up.

Weather permitting, Intrepid and Valiant are scheduled to resume today their rivalry in the final trials to determine the U.S. defender. Intrepid leads Valiant 4-1 in their five races so far in the final trials.

Seniors Tourney — Sept. 13

WOODSTOCK scheduled Sunday, Sept. 13, at eight times outright and shared Woodstock Country Club, the permanent home of the grey-beard golfers.

Defending champions in Class A are Harry Hohnhorst of Woodstock and Ted Young of Woodstock, who shared 1969 honors with 13-hole net scores of 62. The "A" group, 70 years and over, plays 13 holes — the full nine, then No. 1, 2, 6 and 9. Par for the special layout is 50. Hohnhorst, Mr. Senior Golfer since the tournament originated in 1953, has won the coveted title and Dr. Grant Morse.

The seniors tournament, originated by the late Floyd W. Flint, is played in five age classifications: Class A—70 and over; Class B—65 to 69; Class C—60 to 64; Class D—55 to 59; and Class E—50 to 54. Sixteen players competed in the Class A division of the 1969 renewal, the highest number expected to exceed that total.

Crampton, Harney Moody Share Tie

CLIFTON, N.J. (UPI)—Like the old Army sergeant he was, Orville Moody doesn't like to take orders from anyone. But this week he did, and it's paying off.

Phil Rodgers gave Moody the orders—a tip—during the rick Dow Jones Open and Moody followed them well enough to record a course record 64 Friday and move into a three-way tie for the lead at the midway point of the $300,000 tournament.

"He gave me a tip on my driving, my irons and my putting, all at the same time," Moody said.

Moody, who has not won on the tour since he started the golf world by capturing the 1969 U.S. Open, was deadlocked with Bruce Crampton and Paul Harney at eight-under-par 136 today going into the third round of the tournament.

The winner will get $60,000, the biggest jackpot in the game, and if Moody wins, he'll earn exactly $60,000 more than the helpful Rodgers did this week. Rodgers ballooned to an 81 Friday after an opening round 72 and missed the cut.

THE EXCEPTIONS — Syracuse U. football practice opened Friday with only two of its 10 black players working out — Ron Paige (L) No. 51 from Schenectady and Robin Griffin (R) 72, Easton, Pa. The team's only black coach is assistant coach Carlmon Jones (C) who joined the staff this month. The 8 blacks who did not show up have been suspended for the 1970 season. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Football Picture Cloudy at Orange

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — The Orangemen of Syracuse, suddenly without eight of their 10 Negro players, including work horse fullback Al Newton, headed into an uncertain 1970 season on the gridiron today.

But the future looked just as dim for some of the rebellious black players who may have jeopardized pro football careers to dramatize their charges of racial discrimination of the Syracuse squad.

The eight were dropped Friday after they failed to show up for the squad's first official practice session. They also refused to sign a statement saying head coach Ben Schwartzwalder was right in suspending them from the team when they boycotted spring practice to demand the hiring of a black coach and better medical care for black players.

Carlmon Jones, a former Florida A&M star, hired in the wake of the boycott, said Friday, however, he thinks at least two of the holdouts, Newton and defensive back Duane Walker were endangering their chances of playing pro football.

"If football is important to those people, they should sign the statement," Jones said. He disclosed that he had met with the players Thursday night in an unsuccessful effort to get them to rejoin the squad.

Chancellor John E. Corbally set the deadline for the players, stating that any player who did not show up for practice was "obviously removing himself from participating as a member of the squad for the 1970 season."

In a related development, the Syracuse Human Rights Commission, which had been backing the Negro players, said it planned no further action in the case.

"We feel that Syracuse University under the leadership of Chancellor Corbally has indicated a sincere desire to resolve some of the discrepancies of the past," Norman Pinkard, executive director of the commission, said. Pinkard said it was "unfortunate" the players did not rejoin the team, and blamed a "residue of mistrust" left by former Chancellor William P. Tolley, who retired a year ago.

"They (the blacks) refused to meet the deadline because the university refused to admit racism, the basic cause of the problem," Pinkard said.

Originally there were seven players involved in the boycott. They were joined Friday by junior halfback Greg Allen of Plainfield, N. J. Two other blacks, Ron Page, sophomore halfback from Schenectady, and Robin Griffin defensive back of Easton, Pa., reported for practice.

"We expect no further developments, at least on the part of the university," said sports information director Lawrence Kimball. "We have heard nothing from the (black) players."

Syracuse opens its season against Houston Sept. 19 in the AstroDome.

Newton was the leading gainer for the Orange last year, piling up 689 yards on the ground. In two years he has totaled 1,307 yards, placing him seventh behind such Syracuse greats as Jimmy Brown, Ernie Davis and Floyd Little.

Allen was the team's leading kickoff and punt returner last year, with 570 yards in 29 returns. He scored one touchdown.

Other lettermen among the eight were Clarence (Bucky) McGill, a senior defensive end from Binghamton; Duane L. Walker, defensive back from Brooklyn, and John M. Godbolt, senior halfback from Bridgeport, Conn.

The others involved are Dana Harrell, senior defensive back from Indianapolis; John Lobon, junior center of Hartford, Conn., and Ron Bull, sophomore fullback from Buffalo.

Army Encyclopedia Pulled Back

WASHINGTON — In an outrageous goof, the U.S. Army has published a madcap 433-page encyclopedia which sees the world through John Birch Society glasses and ties the Nixon administration to the "communist conspiracy."

Welfare Assistant Secretary James Farmer and many others into the same communist cauldron.

The 1,045-copy edition was so extreme that when Army Signal Center Commander Brig. Gen. Richard Horne III — whose unit published the book — finally read it, he ordered every copy immediately recalled.

Horne quickly ran down the 137 copies given to school instructors and to his staff. The general thought he had collected most of the others, but one of the volumes was smuggled to this column.

The thick book cost $2,425 to print, plus many more dollars to prepare. It was issued by the Center's "Office of Doctrine Development, Literature and Plans," a sort of Stone Age "think tank," to judge by the encyclopedia.

The Doctrine developers begin ominously:

"The Communist threat is not, as some would have us believe, a red herring — it is a red barracuda awaiting its chance to destroy us."

What value the book may have is destroyed when it makes "red barracudas" of the Kings, Farmer, cartoonist Jules Feiffer, writer George Plimpton and other liberals who have often harshly condemned the Soviet system. The text reaches the height of absurdity by quoting a Communist defector — who once claimed he was heir to the Czarist throne — as an expert on State Department matters. The State Department was full of Reds in the 50's, says the volume, and "very little has changed."

"The Executive branch was and is the most vulnerable for Communist infiltration," conclude the writers, speaking of the present administration where the most famous Red-hunter of them all, Richard Nixon, is firmly in the White House.

The experts at Fort Monmouth Signal headquarters also dismiss the United Nations as "Soviet-oriented," an opinion that will no doubt surprise the Soviets.

And the U.S. Supreme Court gets an ear-boxing from the Signal Corps pundits for making it easy for the communists to "infiltrate all branches of government."

In fact, the only three organizations in America free of communist odors, to judge by the book, are the FBI and those relics of the McCarthy era, the House and Senate Internal Security committees.

Brig. Gen. Horne told my associate Les Whitten that he had destroyed all volumes he could find except for two file copies.

"I felt that the material . . . could very easily be misunderstood," he explained. "It was never used . . . by students."

Horne contended he did not know for sure who wrote the book and said no disciplinary action has been taken.

Absent-Minded Dole

Baby-faced Bob Dole of Kansas gave a holier-than-thou lecture to fellow Senators on their lack of ethics during a recent debate on Vietnam.

George McGovern, D-S.C., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., should register as lobbyists if they are going to solicit funds for the "amendment to end the war" drive, he declared and said he would introduce a bill to force them to register.

Dole apparently has a short memory. This column has a solicitation on his official Senate letterhead soliciting donations up to $1,000 for Radio Free Asia. ROFA is a propaganda organization whose "advisory council" consists largely of right-wingers, including some old China Lobby members.

Last year Dole used his Senate stationery to seek $1,000 gifts for the American Security Council, then propagandizing for the ABM.

Dole, one of the most faithful Nixon backers in the Senate probably will have second thoughts about pushing his bill because it would embarrass such Nixon supporters as Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who uses his official letterhead to tub-thump for the conservative Young Americans for Freedom; Sen. Barry Goldwater, D-Ariz., who has asked the Justice Department to investigate McGovern and Hatfield although Goldwater himself has done the same lobbying for YAF; Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.; Sen. Ed Gurney, R-Fla.; Rep. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., and Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., all of whom used their letterheads to raise money or lobby for right-wing causes.

Americans as far inland as Montana are howling to their Senators and Congressmen about the tar-like "yuck" on the nation's East Coast beaches.

In a private letter to David Dominick, Federal Water Quality Administrator, Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., told of vacationing constituents' letters and asked for an investigation of where the "yuck" comes from and "what we are doing about it."

Lack of Hope

Two recently completed studies about welfare and unemployment have put holes in three commonly held views about the people on welfare or unemployed.

The first year of guaranteed-income experiment in New Jersey has shown that people will not reduce their work effort substantially if they get cash assistance from the government. "The desire to work among the poor is much stronger than anyone thought," Dr. John O. Wilson of the Office of Economic Opportunity reported.

An investigation for 1½ years in the St. Louis ghetto labor market has revealed 1) that inner-city workers and suburban employers don't need each other and 2) hard-core unemployment seems to be more the exception than the rule in the ghetto. "The real problem," according to the director of the federally-financed St. Louis study, "is not hard-core unemployment at all, but chronic exposure in the job market. Poor and uneducated persons can find work, but the work they find is dull and poorly paid and offers no future. The turnover in such jobs is high for all persons black and white."

These two studies back up President Nixon's proposals for a family program and the argument that lack of hope for a better future, rather than laziness, lies behind the reluctance of some poor people to take society's least attractive jobs.

Labor Law Reform

The nation faces another railway strike threat on Sept. 6, just before Labor Day, ironically. This is the expiration date of the 60-day cooling off period invoked by President Nixon under the emergency provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

Background music to the dispute is a familiar tune, the "third man" theme—the question of whether a fireman is needed in a diesel cab in addition to an engineer and brakeman.

A nationwide rail shutdown may be averted if the United Transportation Union accepts a solution just recommended by a presidential emergency board. Firemen would gradually be eliminated through attrition by retirement or death, and no new firemen would be hired. None of the 17,500 firemen now on the job would be dismissed and those holding seniority would have an opportunity to bid for a new job classification of fireman-brakeman.

In the meantime, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., has introduced a joint resolution in Congress to establish a Commission on Labor Law Reform. Charging that the Railway Labor Act has proved ineffective throughout its 45-year history, he cites the fact that its emergency provisions have been invoked 188 times since its enactment in 1925. Twice Congress has had to legislate to end rail disputes.

"The transportation industries represent just one area of concern in labor-management relations," says Tower, adding that "our outmoded labor laws are a prime contributor to this dangerous state of affairs."

Tower is also author of another major and controversial labor law reform measure which would strip the National Labor Relations Board of its jurisdiction in unfair labor practices cases, which constitute the bulk of the board's business, and restore that jurisdiction to the federal courts.

The NLRB has long been under attack for alleged pro-union bias, often to the subjugation of individual workers' rights.

The fate of Tower's legislation may well be determined by the outcome of current negotiations in the rail dispute.

A settlement would tend to shunt the drive for labor law reform onto a siding. But a strike, followed by a possible one in the automobile industry, could build up enough pressure to prod Congress into finally taking an overdue look into the tangle of labor laws it has written over the decades.

A Woman's Work Is Never Done

David Lawrence Says

Agnew's Purpose

WASHINGTON — There is something more than a courtesy visit in Vice President Agnew's conferences with the leaders of South Korea, Formosa, Thailand and Vietnam. He was sent by President Nixon to calm the apprehensions of America's allies who are beginning to feel nervous about America's withdrawal of forces from their regions.

In the first place, American newspapers reach southeast Asia promptly, and they have been telling about the outspoken opposition of many Democrats and certain Republicans to the maintenance of large bodies of troops in the area. The belief is growing that maybe the small countries of Asia are about to face a crisis.

Mr. Agnew has been interrogated many times on his tour as to what the different senators mean by their comments about "involvement" abroad. There is an understanding, of course, of the "Guam Doctrine" which President Nixon enunciated, but these countries are not strong enough in an economic sense as yet to support a military apparatus to defend themselves and cope with the acts of subversion in which the communists are so well trained.

The big question Mr. Agnew is being asked is whether the small nations will really be given enough financial support to pay for the kind of military protection they will have to provide if the United States withdraws from their countries, or whether the Nixon Administration will actually supply enough arms and trained advisers to maintain an adequate military force for defense.

South Korea is really under the protection of the United Nations, which initiated an armistice in 1953, and the U.N. Security Council presumably should furnish whatever is necessary to deter any resumption of the war in that country. If American troops are withdrawn, it is up to the United Nations to replace them with armed forces from other U.N. members. Certainly South Korea doesn't feel strong enough to do the job alone if another invasion comes.

The problem in Thailand is somewhat analogous to that in Vietnam. There is grave concern that the United States is not only withdrawing its troops but is pulling out of Southeast Asia as a matter of policy. It is recognized that a Presidential term lasts only a few years in the United States, and the fear prevails that maybe the trend here will become "isolationist" and turn from the Southeast Asian Treaty obligations that America agreed to honor.

There is deep confidence in President Nixon's sincerity, but the worry is that he doesn't have enough support in Congress and that the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam was forced upon him by his political critics.

In Vietnam itself, the economy has not been in good shape, and economic aid has been increased by the United States. The hope, of course, is that Vietnam will be able to train and equip its army so as to be able to withstand any invasion. Uncertainty is being generated as to whether the United States, after taking out its troops, will not pay less and less attention to Vietnam. It's what comes after the American Troop withdrawal that is causing the big discussion nowadays in the inner circles of the Saigon Government. The belief prevails that, as long as American forces are on the scene and money keeps coming from the United States, the communists will not make any major military effort to obtain control of the country. But if the internal situation in South Vietnam is not improved and the communists make inroads among the people, there is always the possibility that subversion may have more and more success.

What the Saigon government would like, of course, is to have some American troops retained in Vietnam, together with a number of technical advisers, both military and economic. Most of all, enough money is required to allow a small nation to build its economy and begin to produce revenues that will achieve the goals of the "Guam Doctrine" — namely, self-support with some aid from abroad, but with the primary financial and military needs provided by the people themselves.

BERRY'S WORLD

Swiss Bankers Are Angry

ZURICH — Today's dirty word among the Swiss banks is Penn Central. Switzerland's Wall Street is Zurich's Bahnhofstrasse. Up and down the Bahnhofstrasse they are mad clear through. And when a Swiss banker feels like that he makes the proverbial woman scorned seem jollier than Bob Hope.

It has been only 163 years since a vehicle (via the Simplon road) was able to cross the Alps for the first time. And 20 years after the Simplon road neighboring Swiss engineers built continental Europe's first sizable railway — 60 miles of track between Bochnia, in Poland, and Vienna. Railroadroading — and they are among the best in the world at it — is in the Swiss blood.

For generations on end the excellent Swiss railroads have been the Swiss banks' favorite investment. The average trust department here has about 25 per cent of its entire portfolio in securities of this country's railroads.

Railroad-minded, the banks here have long owned untold millions of dollars of Penn Central bonds and more than half a million shares of Penn Central stock. The crash in these has dented several institutions. But that, I find, is only the surface of the story and is compounded by an additional Swiss anger.

As the Penn Central bubble grew and grew and was ready to burst the Philadelphia management apparently feared that its American creditors would panic if its financial plight were revealed. On June 11, just before its bankruptcy proceedings, Penn Central turned to the Swiss banks and borrowed from here almost $60 million.

Then Penn Central used the Swiss money to repay part of $200 million it owed on United States commercial markets. Swiss bankers say of such an act: "Es gefallt mir nicht" — "I don't like it."

The managing director of the largest bank in Switzerland estimated to me that it will take at least 15 years for most large Penn Central creditors to make substantial recoveries and get the Penn Central press out of the American and European courts. He spoke in words as sharp as the steel ferrule on an Alpine climbing pike.

It is commonly said that there are more banks in this nation than dentists. This is true. There are about 4,200 banking outlets, one for every 1,300 people. And many have functioned as shelters through Europe's "Thirty Years' War," the Napoleonic conquests, the Huguenot persecutions, the 1848 revolutions and Europe's last three major wars.

About one-fifth of the $19 billion bank deposits here are from foreigners, mostly because of the worldwide confidence in the stability of the Swiss franc, which is completely backed by gold and instantly exchangeable for gold within the country by any Swiss citizen. Instead of paying interest on these foreign balances, Swiss banks charge interest on them — to discourage more depositors.

The Swiss, as a whole, bitterly resent the misunderstandings and criticisms in our country and elsewhere about their Bank Secrecy Act. This legislation is a section of the nation's Liberty Laws dedicated to protecting the individual from the invasion of privacy and from harassment. The law codified in the early '30's, is a time-honored custom and was this country's counterattack to the Nazi Gestapo's retaliation against anyone who had a bank account outside Germany. The Nazi penalty was death.

Today the law (abused as it may be) protects refugees from the Communist countries — 200,000 in Switzerland from Hungary alone — from their Communist governments that constantly try to entrap them through any bank deposits.

In the first year after the Soviet reconquest of Czechoslovakia (August 21, 1968), the Swiss Embassy in Vienna issued entrance visas to Czechs at the average year-long rate of 200 a day, with a peak of more than 700 on some days. Of about 12,000 Czechs who entered Switzerland, 10,400 asked for political asylum here and this country accepted them.

The Swiss defend the Bank Secrecy Act much as we do the Fifth Amendment in our Constitution, knowing that scoundrels may and do take advantage of it for purposes not intended but that, in principle, the protection is enormously proper.

If a banker breaks the law, the maximum penalty is $4,000 and six months in jail. It would mean the end of any man's career in Swiss banking or Swiss business anywhere in the world, and no case has ever come to a federal court.

WHY CAN'T YOU MUSICIANS DRESS LIKE EVERYBODY ELSE?

8-29 JACK WOHL

TEEN SCENE: Why the Festival Fell From Favor

They say that it started at the so-called Woodstock Festival at White Lake over a year ago, but that isn't quite accurate. Festival Fever manifested itself for decades at such events as the Newport Jazz Festivals. For every soul who went to dig the sounds, there was one who went to see the action, and often reports stressed the violence more than the music. This was also true of several major Pop Festivals of the 'Sixties. The outdoor concert evolved into the rock, pop, or folk festival. For a decade there had been a small festival that really WAS in Woodstock. It wasn't widely publicized, and usually the audience was small enough that they could all hear the music. Unfortunately, so could neighbors of the festival site, and there were hassles that seemed major at the time, but which were only pale shadows of the future.

The "Woodstock Festival of Music and Art" at Bethel wasn't the beginning, it was the beginning of the end. It was the first festival where more people didn't hear the music than did, and reports from the site raised the hair of the people who weren't there. (Oddly, most of the residents of White Lake didn't find the event as disturbing as the people did who read about it in the morning paper.) After that weekend the words "music festival" carried their unspoken echoes of filthy campsites, nudity, drugs, mud, medical emergencies, crime, motorcycles, insufficient sanitation, traffic tie-ups, and thousands and thousands of young people. To millions of teens, the media had painted a similar image of what a music festival was really about. Nobody was listening to a few realistic reporters who tried to point out that some aspects of White Lake were sensationalized, and that some of the rumored incidents never even took place. Music festivals were tagged as muddy scenes with beautiful vibes where anything went and everyone was there, with or without a ticket.

Straights immediately decided there must never be "another Woodstock," and the young started turning every music festival in duplicate White Lakes—or their conception of White Lake. So 1970 turned into the Summer of the Messed Festival. It's hard to tell which were the worst disasters—the ones that survived the legal battles and happened, or those that were cancelled, often at the last minute, after court battles that became as stylized as the opening of a chess match.

A few weeks ago, after a week particularly full of major festival cancellations, the music industry began to press for a fact-finding study to assure the preservation and future of the festival format. It was hoped that such a study could pinpoint exactly what the abuses of the past had been, and how they could best be ended in the future, so that the music, not the mania would become the important feature of the festivals, and so that communities would see festivals as an asset, not a dangerous ordeal.

If such a study is begun, it will sum festival problems up in one word—"exploitation." Promoters exploit music lovers by such tactics as exorbitant admission fees, insufficient sanitation, expensive concessions, advertised talent that hadn't been confirmed, and too many tickets available for the chosen site and its capacity. It is hard to tell where poor planning changes into dangerous carelessness and deliberate dishonesty. Entertainers were victimized by cancelled bookings or non-payment of fees by "bankrupt" festivals. The exploitation was carried out by both sides though. Countless thousands shoved into festivals free, while ticket holders fumed in unmovable traffic jams. There were always a few sensationalists, more interested in being seen and heard than in seeing and hearing the scheduled acts. Entertainers caused tension by no-showing, with or without good reason. Many persons attended festivals solely for the purpose in dealing in mind-benders, and there have been rumors that occasionally the underworld was getting a direct cut of these sales.

In order to be successful, a festival will have to maintain a careful blend of good faith, good planning, good music, good security, good weather, and good vibrations. Whether it is possible to achieve that blend is uncertain. What is even more uncertain is whether there will ever be another opportunity. Music festivals, like the dinosaurs, may have become too big for their heads and environments.

At Festival of Strings in Spain

William H. Oskay, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Oskay, 168 Doris Street, Port Ewen, participated recently with the "Pollensa Festival Strings" chamber orchestra in the cloister of the Santo Domingo Monastery, Pollensa de Mallorca, Spain.

Oskay, a graduate assistant in violin performance at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind., is continuing his studies this summer at the Conservatory of Music in Palma de Mallorca, under Eugene Prokopp, musical director of the Pollensa Festival Strings. Oskay is one of four Americans asked to participate in the 14 piece orchestra, which included professional musicians from Czechoslovakia, Spain and Switzerland.

Prokopp, an internationally known violinist, founded the Pollensa Festival Strings this year, as a permanent addition to the well-known Festival de Pollensa. Next year he plans a more extensive program for the orchestra, including recording contracts and a tour of European music festivals.

WILLIAM H. OSKAY

A 1964 graduate of Kingston High School, Oskay received his bachelor of science degree from Ball State University in 1969. With the aid of a graduate asstantship, Oskay is now teaching violin and studying for his master of education degree.

A scholarship student all three years at Ball State (he went to Ulster County Community College his first year), Oskay completed colloquia in humanities in his junior year; presented an honor violin concert in his senior year and maintained a 3.51 cumulative average for his undergraduate career thus making him eligible to graduate with honors.

It was at Ball State where he first met Prokopp. He studied violin with the noted professor who was guest artist in residence at the university.

Locally Oskay had studied with noted violinist Frank Mele of Woodstock and Markian Baczynsky, Kingston High School orchestra director.

Last summer, in addition to his graduate studies he pursued a part time career as staff photographer for the Ball State Daily News and the Ball State Yearbook.

Job Opportunities — Prospect of the 70's

NEW YORK (AP) — "Eight out of ten jobs to be filled in the 1970s will be open to young workers with less than a college degree." The statement is from a Labor Department news release on training requirements for jobs.

"Of course I intend to send my kids to college. I don't know how I'll pay but no youngster will have a chance in the future without a college degree." That statement could be made by any of several million parents.

The discrepancy in outlooks has many ramifications for the individual and society, now and in the immediate future.

For the present: Should families go deeply in debt to pay tuition for a youngster who really doesn't want to go to college? And for society: Is the present popular attitude that "everyone is entitled to a college education" really shortsighted?

Admittedly, the questions assume that education is solely for the purpose of obtaining a suitable job, which really is too narrow a definition. It is, however, one of the chief reasons why Americans attend college.

In doing so, they are not misinformed. Professional and technical jobs, which almost always require college training, are expected to grow faster than any other occupational group, according to the Labor Department.

However, in announcing publication of the biennial every two years — Occupational Outlook Handbook, the Labor Department makes a distinction between percentage growth in actual numbers.

"More than two-thirds of the job openings arising from occupational growth and replacement needs through the 1970s will be in clerical, sales, service, blue collar and farm jobs that usually do not require a college degree.

The distinction that many Americans do not make is this: Jobs in the future may require more schooling than in the past, but that schooling does not necessarily mean more college education.

This is the outlook for some selected jobs that do not, at present, require college degrees, but which might demand vocational training or apprenticeships:

—Manufacturers' salesmen. "Very good opportunities." Annual openings of about 32,000 a year are expected during the 1970s.

—Police officers. "Very good opportunities. Cities will continue to increase the size of their police forces to meet the needs of growing population." Institutions also may expand their security forces.

—Electronic Computer Operating Personnel. Annual openings of 20,400. "Employment of computer and auxiliary equipment operators is expected to increase very rapidly as computers are adapted to new uses."

—Business Machine servicemen. "Very favorable job opportunities for those who have good mechanical ability and knowledge of electricity and electronics." Annual openings of about 8,500.

—Plumbers and pipefitters. Openings of 19,500 a year. "Rapid increase in employment through the 1970s as plumbing and heating work become more important in rising construction activity."

—Senior high youth will be led by Martin Hain, president, in a program of activities that will include a youth choir, youth fellowship meetings, outings and special trips.

Senior high youth will be led by Jan Baudendistel, president,

Recent Arrival Completes Circle

WOODSTOCK The American Field Service program is going full circle again with the arrival of this year's exchange student.

A gala party last weekend welcomed Eva Cristina Arza Gomez of Auscion, Paraguay to her Woodstock home for the coming school year. She will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Goddard and daughters Suzanne and Jeanne of 138 Byrdcliffe Road, Woodstock, during her stay here.

Hosting the AFS welcoming party were the Moscovitz family who hosted last year's exchange student, Karuna Anuntkosol of Thailand. Eve Moscovitz, president of Ontario AFS Chapter, remembers fondly her stint as host sister. She said it was a wonderful experience and that the whole family learned so much by having Karuna as part of their home circle during her exchange visit. Eve said that she hopes to participate in an exchange program herself some day. Meanwhile the chapter is making plans for fund raising activities during the school year so that the enriching program of understanding and friendship may continue from the shadow of the Catskills to the shadows of the Alps and the Andes.

Ontario students currently abroad under the AFS International Scholarship exchange are Amy Elwyn on summer sojourn in Austria and Marie Snyder on study stay in Uruguay.

Eva Gomez arrived in the United States in mid-August and after a three day orientation arranged by AFS for all entering foreign students, joined her American family in Woodstock.

She will have just a brief time to get acquainted with her new family and some of the area attractions before settling down to the routine of school at Ontario in Boiceville.

A language exchange is first will get a chance to see plenty on the home orientation agenda of American football this fall. As the Goddards are anxious to improve their Spanish while game on the local sports calendar helping Eva learn some of the dar and they will be on hand more colloquial phrases in preparation for understanding ology.

Eva is the oldest daughter of a family of seven children. Her father is a farm foreman in the Chaco District of Northern Paraguay. She has spent brief vacations in Argentina and Brazil.

This exchange adventure however is a whole new world and once she gets settled into the family and school life of her new surroundings detailed impressions can be expected.

Although her subject preferences are science oriented her sports favorites are varied. An avid soccer fan at home, Eva

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

None of the women in my neighborhood are great housekeepers, so we do each other's worst chores. We meet every Wednesday morning and while children play together, the mothers do the hostess' chore list. Currently we have eight women, and thirteen children ranging in age from three weeks to five years.

Then we have lunch, clean up and go home. When attendance is perfect, things are a bit hectic and noisy, but that doesn't happen often. I've just loved it because I get a morning out without feeling guilty about leaving my housework. My toddler knows the other mothers well and is not distressed if I leave him with one of them, and he also enjoys playing with the other children.

When it's my turn to have the group, I always get chores done that I hate to do. I find the discussions helpful in sewing, cleaning and child-solving problems about rearing.

The whole thing has been marvelous because we have a variety of talents and interests available to use. We have even gotten together and prepared a Chinese-style dinner for the members and their husbands. We shared the work and it made a large party easy to do. At Christmas we had a party for the children and one for the parents.

What started as an experiment has worked out beautifully. It's often an oasis in a dull week.

Jeanne James

You really are the "We 8 Work Squad"! A share-the-work program—for drab and uninteresting jobs that must be done — turns housecleaning into fun and something to look forward to. Jean, you're a dream for letting us in on your scheme.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Whoever said, "necessity is the mother of invention" knew what they were talking about! Needing a holder for my crochet thread, I cut a plastic foam cup in half and punched a hole in the bottom.

I then put my thread in a whole plastic foam cup and turned the halved one upside down in this whole cup with my thread through the hole. Works perfectly.

Doris Soltis

Dear Heloise: While defrosting the refrigerator I put a flat pan of hot water in the compartment. Ice immediately fell off the bottom. But it is the TOP that is so slow in melting.

So I took a loaf pan and raised the flat pan close to the top and the job went so much faster — almost half the time.

Dear Abby

Some Sound Advice

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune

N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who wrote asking why not an "Adulterers Anonymous," could have been me, but it wasn't.

I like her, a good husband and two fine children. I know my husband loves me. If he doesn't, I can't think of any reason he continues to live with me after learning about three separate affairs I've had. What he doesn't know is that there have been many others. I, too, live in constant fear that he will find out, and will not forgive me again.

You recommended that she see a psychiatrist. I already have, and it didn't help me much. One year later I came away just as mixed up, and a lot less off financially.

I am not the typically trampy woman — at least not as far as appearances go. I am well-liked, attractive, and make friends easily, but if my friend's husband appeals to me, I think nothing of making another conquest. (I could go on, but it only gets more disgusting.)

The only help I have ever had came when I decided to see my minister. Tell women with a weakness for men that

"inner strength" is what they need, and if they really want to change, they can, but they can never do it alone. God is the answer. I know.

DEAR BEEN THERE: Thank you for sharing your success story. Sometimes the answer is so obvious it is overlooked.

DEAR ABBY: This is a very serious problem with me and it's no made-up story, so I wish you would answer me fast.

I am almost 17 and I'm in love with my neighbor who is married and has children. She is really the greatest person I have ever met and is exactly what I want in a wife. She doesn't know how I feel about her and she treats me like she would treat any other neighbor

kid. Her husband is a great guy and I like him, too. In fact,

I find myself trying to copy him so his wife will notice me more.

I see her a lot now that school is out and it has torn me up.

I can't get interested in any girl my own age because none of them compares with this neighbor. I have had this feeling for her for about a year now and I can't get over it. I make good grades, have lots of friends, go to church and am usually very sensible but I'm afraid I may end up with a nervous breakdown if I don't get her off my mind soon. How can I stop loving her?

PASADENA, TEX.

DEAR PAS: This is not love.

It's a "crush." And you CAN get over it if you get out and mix with kids your own age and keep yourself occupied mentally and physically.

(Exercise is a great outlet for frustrated emotions.) Quit mooning and swooning and drooling and dreaming. Wake up, man, there's a cute 16-year-old doll who is just waiting for you to look her way. And if you don't discover her by next Sunday, hang around after church and ask your minister if you can talk to him about something. Then, level with him.

DEAR ABBY: My baby is not due for another six months, but I have a problem. My mother lives hundreds of miles away, and altho I know she means well, she is a worrywart, and that is why I haven't told her that I am pregnant yet. You see, this is my first pregnancy and I have been having quite a bit of trouble, and there is still a chance that I might lose the baby, and if my mother knew about it, she'd be here in 2 minutes, worrying herself sick and making me nervous.

Also, she's the kind who would run out and buy baby clothes and baby furniture, and if I were to lose the baby it would break her heart. Am I wrong not to tell her yet? I don't want to upset her.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: I

suspect you are more fearful of having your mother visit you and upsetting you than upsetting herself. Ask your doctor when he thinks you should tell your mother.

CONFIDENTIAL TO

"SUPERSTITIOUS": I am not questioning the "good luck"

that supposedly accompanies the rabbit's foot. All I said was,

"It didn't do much for the rabbit."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box

69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

stamped, addressed envelope.

CBS Movies—A Solid Start

NEW YORK (UPI)—Glenn Ford makes his television acting debut in "The Brotherhood of the Bell," a suspense drama which opens the sixth season of the Thursday night movies on CBS-TV, Sept. 17.

The networks always launch film series with good, solid, proven Hollywood products so the choice of a new feature movie made specifically for television for that distinction is something of a first.

Like its respected competitors, CBS is placing great reliance on films in the new season—Thursday and Friday are the movie nights on that network—and with everybody scrambling for the dwindling stockpile of Hollywood products is busily filming its own.

This is being done by a subsidiary, Cinema Center 100. After recent preview of "The Brotherhood of the Bell," Gerald L. Adler, vice president of the production company, spoke of the thinking behind the program.

Television obviously cannot spend the money a film company could in the days when Hollywood dominated the world film market, so Adler said the CBS product has to be meticulously prepared to fit into a tight five-week shooting schedule using expensive big stars for shorter but more intensive periods of work.

At the same time the photography is carefully planned to give the illusion that what is on the screen is lush and expensive. Adler thinks "The Brotherhood of the Bell" is a good example of what he means. To make allowances for the small screen as many scenes as are possible are shot with the actors in closeup.

"This sort of production, cross between film making and television programming, is coming into its own this year," Adler said.

There can't be too many good programs for children and CBS-TV has an idea for Saturday morning that may alleviate some of the criticism that it is too often given over to trivia by the networks. Five times every Saturday morning, starting Sept. 12, CBS will broadcast two and a half minute "mini-documentaries" called "In The Know."

In the first weeks viewers will see what keeps gliders in the air, watch a glass blower at work, go pearl diving in Japan, see the workings of the human inner ear and learn how cars are constructed.

Vice President Bill Leonard says the unusual length is a tribute of sorts to commercials, which have over the years developed a technique of transmitting ideas in very short periods of time. Young people brought up on commercials can more quickly grasp a pictorial message than adults—so he says.

The difference between a boo-boo and a bad mistake is in who catches whom doing what wrong.

Some of our legislators can't tell time except when they consult a caucus clock.

Too often, a bargain radio is made to be sold rather than to be used.

Now is about the time to think of getting the license that will permit you in just a few short weeks to enjoy the fun of blowing your toes off while shooting at what you think might just be something other than another hunter.

Q—What famous concert pianist was the premier of his native country?

A—Ignace Paderewski, first president of the Republic of Poland.

Q—What is the all-time best-selling work of fiction?

A—The novel with the highest sales is "Peyton Place," which has sold over 10 million copies.

Mayor's Address Highlights Downtown Frustration

The demolition of the B and F Market building on Broadway really brought home to us what urban renewal has done to Broadway East.

Sure, the old timers like Joe Epstein, used to tell us what a thriving place Broadway and The Strand used to be. About Saturday night crowds so thick that you had to walk out in the streets . . . a real boom town.

But we never saw any of that. Five years ago when we got here most of downtown was either vacant or demolished. But the B and F was there and it was booming. We used to stop in for a pack of cigarettes and gossip with Jimmy Roberts, the owner, or his wife Ruth or the butchers who had the latest dope on everything.

Even when Roberts closed up it didn't mean that much. He came back a few times to supervise cleanup operations and gab a bit.

Now it's gone. Just a pile of rubble. That will soon be gone. One can stand in front of The Freeman and see all the way up the hill or all the way to Rondout Gardens. There is nothing in between. Nothing but desolate fields.

THE NEW four-lane highway which will some day be called Broadway again, is nothing but a wide cowpath filled with gaping holes with pipes sticking out.

One hears of progress uptown. The Goodyear tire center will be going up soon on North Front Street. The new Clinton Avenue is moving along nicely. Metropolitan Insurance will spend $2,000,000 for a new building.

But downtown there is nothing. Oh sure, there's construction on the new city hall. It looks so small in all that desolation. Developers were supposed to flock to Broadway East when city hall went up. They haven't. They couldn't get down Broadway if they wanted to.

Perhaps Mayor Frank Koenig's address before the Rondout Advisory Board on Thursday night was in keeping with the general condition of downtown.

Koenig brought a tale of failure and frustration. After more than two years the residents were told that the Al Brown Memorial Recreation Center would not be built as they had envisioned and would not be named after the late police officer as they had hoped.

The mayor passed around plans for a building. The plans were meaningless. They had been shelved two years ago when bids came in $80,000 over estimates. The mayor showed the people what they might have had. He told them that they would have to start all over again. People in Rondout have known that for a long time.

There were some sidelights at the meeting that showed the frustration, and in some cases, the sense of humor of Downtowners.

One man called downtown "Deadman's Paradise." "You got to be real careful around here," he told the mayor. "Men could fall in on those (construction) holes and never be found. It's like walking on eggs."

One young woman politely said to the mayor, "Mayor, we never see a policeman down here. How come? And then, looking out the window, she said, 'Now that's strange. There's a policeman out there tonight, mayor. I wonder why he's out there tonight.'" The crowd howled. The mayor looked embarrassed.

COP OF THE YEAR—Apparently our city policemen aren't as good as they used to be. We haven't seen a Kiwanis Club "Policeman of the Year" award in about two years.

The word we get is that Chief Francis Fagan and the commissioners feel that the award caused bad morale in the department and have axed it. We also hear that former Mayor Garraghan, a Kiwanian, is just a bit burned up about this new policy.

SUGGESTION: Our paid firemen are a fine group. Why not name a Fireman of the Year, if the police hierarchy don't want it?

LAW AND RULES—It looks like the Council will have a light agenda next week when it meets on Tuesday night. Reason? Don Quick, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee, has spent a good part of the month out of town on vacation.

Don deserves a vacation. He's a hard working fellow and a good alderman. But just because the chairman goes on vacation there's no reason why the Laws and Rules Committee, the major committee in the council, has to take a rest with him.

Time and time again we've queried members of that committee on various major issues confronting the city, such as fluoridation. The answer, for the past month? "Gee, I don't know, Don's on vacation. We haven't met."

Dear Don, why not name a deputy chairman so some work can be done while you're not around? Either that or take the whole committee on vacation with you.

THE ARTERIAL — Everything hush-hush (God forbid, the public should be let in on what their elected officials are doing) but there seems to be a certain resentment setting in to mayoral arm twisting for this new highway.

We are told that the mayor "suggested" that the Council go into special session on Aug. 14 to vote for the highway. The reaction from two aldermen: "What you trying to do? Jam it down our throats? We meet in three weeks. We'll pass it then."

Passage still looks good, but it doesn't look any better with the passage of time.

SCARBOROUGH FAIR — That's the name of Kingston's newest gift shop, on Wall Street, operated by former GOP Third Ward Alderman candidate, and former (brief) running mate of Cliff Bunting in last year's GOP primary, Jim Thompson, and by Walt Maxwell.

We spent many an hour at Council meetings when he was news director at GHQ, bored by the deathless prose of aldermen.

Little did we realize that James would grow up to be a tycoon. The shop, which opened Friday, is located on Wall where Abram's Music Shop used to be and features all kinds of goodies. It's worth a look. (END OF PLUG)

BLACK BEAUTY — Miss Black America of 1970, Stephanie Clark, a 19-year-old Ithaca College sophomore of Washington, D. C., displays her trophy after being chosen during the pageant at Madison Square Garden Friday. Miss Clark said she hopes to become a professional singer. A total of 31 girls from 30 states and the District of Columbia participated in the contest. The 1970 queen was crowned by last year's winner, Floria Smith of New York City. First prize includes a $3,000 trip to the Caribbean and $5,000 for personal appearances. Judges included former baseball great Jackie Robinson, Fannie Lou Hamer, vice chairman of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, and Operation Breadbasket director, the Rev. Jesse Jackson. Sylvia Alexis Smith, 23, of Durham, N. C., was first runnerup, followed by Julie Merritt, 20, of Kansas City; Emma Morrison, 19, of Norfolk, Va.; and Sinnie J. Richardson, 20, of Dayton, Ohio. Senators in Hassle On Stock Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic sponsor of an insurance plan to protect securities investors is at odds with Republican colleagues over his attack on alleged Wall Street interference with Senate business.

Although Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, complained New York securities industry representatives tried to pressure him into calling off a Senate subcommittee session, Republican Sens. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, John G. Tower of Texas and Robert W. Packwood of Oregon said, "None of us received any pressure or threats."

"In fact, the circumstances would seem to be the opposite to that implied by Sen. Muskie," the GOP senators said in a joint statement issued several hours after Muskie met with newsmen Friday.

"Industry and Treasury representatives have reported that pressure had been put on them to assure that a quorum would be present at the subcommittee meeting . . . or else the insurance bill would be 'killed,'" the GOP senators added.

Muskie was the only senator in the Banking and Currency Committee hearing room when the doors were opened at the time of the scheduled closed subcommittee session to draft a final version of the bill.

Muskie contended securities industry representatives, through calls to subcommittee staff member Richard Richardson, "told me that if I didn't call off the session they would do everything they could to see that it wasn't held."

"I don't know that they call anyone else" on the subcommittee "and I'm not going to imply that they did," he told reporters. "But I want to make clear my position. I'm ready. I'm here. I'm ready to write the bill."

Six of the 10 subcommittee members would have had to be present before the panel could take action.

Subcommittee Chairman Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., issued a statement later saying the lack of a quorum was unfortunate. He urged Committee Chairman John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., to have the entire committee take up the measure shortly after the Labor Day recess.

Tate Murder Trial Painful For One of the Defendants

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Susan Superior Court Judge Charles and of grocer Leno LaBianca Atkins, one of Charles Manson's three female codefendants in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial, was hospitalized briefly at Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center Friday.

However, she was returned to the Sybil Brand Institute, where she and codefendants Leslie Van Houten and Patricia Krenwinkel are being held, after an examination by a gynecologist. The results of the examination were not available.

Miss Atkins delayed the start of the morning session Friday, complaining of cramps and a headache and backache. After an examination by a jail doctor, she said she felt up to continuing with the trial, although she spent most of the brief session slumped in her chair, holding her head in her hands.

Her attorney, Daye Shinn, said she was in tears and

McLucas Jury Ponders Verdict On Fourth Day of Deliberations

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—The jury trying Black Panther Lonnie McLucas struggled for the fourth day today with the legal complexities of the kidnaping and murder conspiracy charges against him.

The 10 whites and two blacks on the jury deliberated a total of 19 hours from Wednesday through Friday. Judge Harold M. Mulvey said a Sunday session would be held if necessary.

McLucas is charged with kidnaping resulting in death, a capital crime, and conspiracy to commit murder, conspiracy to kidnap and binding with intent to commit a crime in the death of Panther Alex Rackley.

The jury asked Mulvey for a third clarification of the charges Friday.

The jurors' difficulty with the case was brought out when they asked Mulvey not only for a clarification of the charges but also to "please slow down and pause when you read." They asked the judge for a copy of the entire 1 hour and 47 minute charge he delivered Wednesday, but the request was denied. The difficulties raised the possibility that the defense might file motions for a mistrial.

Eight Panthers, including national party chairman Bobby G. Seale, are accused in the death of Rackley, a Panther from New York City. His body was found May 21, 1969, in a Middlefield swamp. He had been shot twice.

The state contends Seale gave orders to George Sams Jr., to have Rackley killed and that McLucas participated willingly in the slaying. The defense maintains Sams acted on his own when he ordered Rackley killed and McLucas, who admitted firing the second shot, participated because of his fear of Sams.

Heavy Fighting in Amman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jordanian army troops and Palestinian guerrillas fought for three hours in the streets of Amman Friday night and early today. When the shooting ended, two Palestinians were dead but the guerrillas were in control of the central telephone building.

One commando organization, the Popular Democratic Front, said government security forces started the fighting by firing on guerrillas as they plastered posters on the building's walls.

It was the latest in a series of confrontations between the Jordanian government, which has accepted the U.S. plan for peace in the Middle East, and the guerrillas, who have denounced it and pledged to sabotage it.

Meanwhile, according to UPI, Egypt's representative to the Middle East talks in New York says there is "little hope" they will lead to peace.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, in an Arabic-language broadcast over Israeli radio, said Friday night that if peace is achieved "Israel does not aspire to hold all the areas now under its control. An honorable compromise is possible and necessary."

Early in June, before the United States proposed the cease-fire plan, commandos clashed with Jordanian troops in Amman in battles that resulted in some 1,000 deaths. The fighting did not end until King Hussein agreed to a list of guerrilla demands.

Friday night's clash, punctuated by explosions and machine-gun fire, followed a war council of commando groups that ended with a call for more attacks against Israel.

Yasir Arafat, leader of the Al Fatah guerrilla organization, told cheering delegates that three guerrillas were killed in a raid Thursday but that "the enemy took many casualties. This is our answer to the U.S. peace plan and all surrender solutions."

In Jerusalem, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban called for an "honorable compromise" in a speech directed toward the Arabic people. Speaking fluent Arabic over Israeli radio and television, Eban said:

"In a state of peace, Israel does not aspire to hold all the areas now under its control. An honorable compromise is possible and necessary."

Will Rogers Lives Again at Hyde Park

"Congress has a slogan . . . why sleep at home when you can sleep in Congress."

"Once a man holds public office . . . he's absolutely no good for honest work."

"Now when Congress gets the constitution all fixed up, they're going to start on the Ten Commandments just as soon as they can find somebody in Washington who has read them."

The laugh-laced witticisms quoted above came tumbling out of the mouth of a cowboy philosopher who kept audiences chuckling back in the '20s and early '30s. Now the folksy humor of the Stetson-wearing, gum-chewing Will Rogers is getting a new hearing in a sparkling stage production, "Will Rogers' U.S.A."

Enroute to Broadway, the show has been on a nation-wide road tour; stops next at Hyde Park Playhouse for a one week run from Aug. 31 to Sept. 5. And the man who only knew what he "read in the newspapers" lives again in this one-man show, starring versatile film and TV actor James Whitmore, who's the personification of Will Rogers.

Whitmore "proves that time does not wither nor custom stale the wit and wisdom of Will Rogers in a show that runs an easygoing gamut of his humor from politics ("Our diplomacy is an open book a check book.") to the medical profession (his doctor, queried on the possibility of a person dying after being operated on for the wrong ailment, assured him: "When I operate on you for gallstones, you'll die of gallstones.")

Gifted Portrayal

Theatrically speaking, audiences at Hyde Park next week will see a great American re-born. Whitmore's gifted characterization has been called "uncanny." He has mastered Rogers' soft Western drawl and wide lop-sided grin, along with his casual stroll, rolling gait, and lariat-twirling ability.

Every word in the show has been taken from the original writings and sayings of Rogers and, amazingly, each sentence is as pertinent to our times as to the year it was first written.

For Will Rogers, before he died in a plane crash in Alaskan waters in 1935, specialized in humor that has never become dated. "War is the only game when everybody loses," he said — and, again, "If we had any morals, we'd use 'em ourselves." On women's hemlines, he was sagely prophetic: "Do not let fashion lead you further than your capabilities."

Whitmore, a veteran character actor with an Antoinette Perry Award for "Command Decision" on Broadway and an Oscar nomination for "Battle Ground" in films, is inspired and disarming as the famed humorist. His is a delightful characterization, and Hyde Park audiences are in for a treat when Whitmore makes a hit with Rogers' wit.

JAMES WHITMORE AS WILL ROGERS

The Price Ends Woodstock Season

One of the most acclaimed plays in recent years rings down the curtain on the 1970 summer season at Woodstock Playhouse.

For its last show of the year, the Woodstock theatre has chosen THE PRICE, Arthur Miller's most recent triumph. One of his finest and most successful plays, it was a hit on Broadway; has been a hit wherever it has been seen.

Miller is considered by many to be America's greatest living playwright. His "Death of a Salesman" won the Pulitzer Prize. His next major play was "The Crucible," followed by "A View from the Bridge," which received the Gold Medal Award for Drama from the National Institute of Arts and Letters. "The Price" is Miller's first play since "Incident at Vichy," and it will open at Woodstock Sept. 1 to play through the Labor Day weekend, closing Sept. 7.

Company of Four

A company of four makes up the cast of "The Price," the story of two brothers who meet for the first time in 16 years in the attic of the family brownstone. They are there because the building is soon to be demolished and they must dispose of the household goods of two generations stored in the attic.

The memories evoked by the antique furniture recall the old bitterness between these brothers. The oldest, Walter, is a successful doctor. The youngest, Victor, is a New York police sergeant. The policeman, actually the cleverer of the two, long ago relinquished any claim to a higher education to support his father.

Now, about to retire and needing money—but knowing he will have to split the proceeds of the furniture sale with his brother—he feels as jealous and as cheated as he always has.

In the Woodstock production of "The Price," Walter will be played by Robert Baines, and Richard Kuss has the role of Victor. Carol Sica will appear as Victor's wife, Esther, and Seymour Penza will have the part of Gregory Solomon, an ancient but crafty dealer in second-hand furniture.

A Slippery Dealer

The old dealer is a funny and slippery character who acts as the catalyst in the situation as the brothers reveal themselves in often angry outbursts.

There is comedy and drama in "The Price," and New York Times critic Clive Barnes calls it "one of the most engrossing and entertaining plays that Miller has written." He considers it "superbly, even flamboyantly theatrical . . . complying with the classic unities of time, place and action"; says "Miller holds the interest with the skill of a born storyteller."

Woodstock will have a guest director for "The Price" in Joseph Leon, a veteran actor of many Broadway shows. He directed "The Lion in Winter" at Woodstock several seasons ago. Lighting will be by Ronald Wallace and resident designer David L. Taylor has charge of the crammed, cobwebby attic set design.

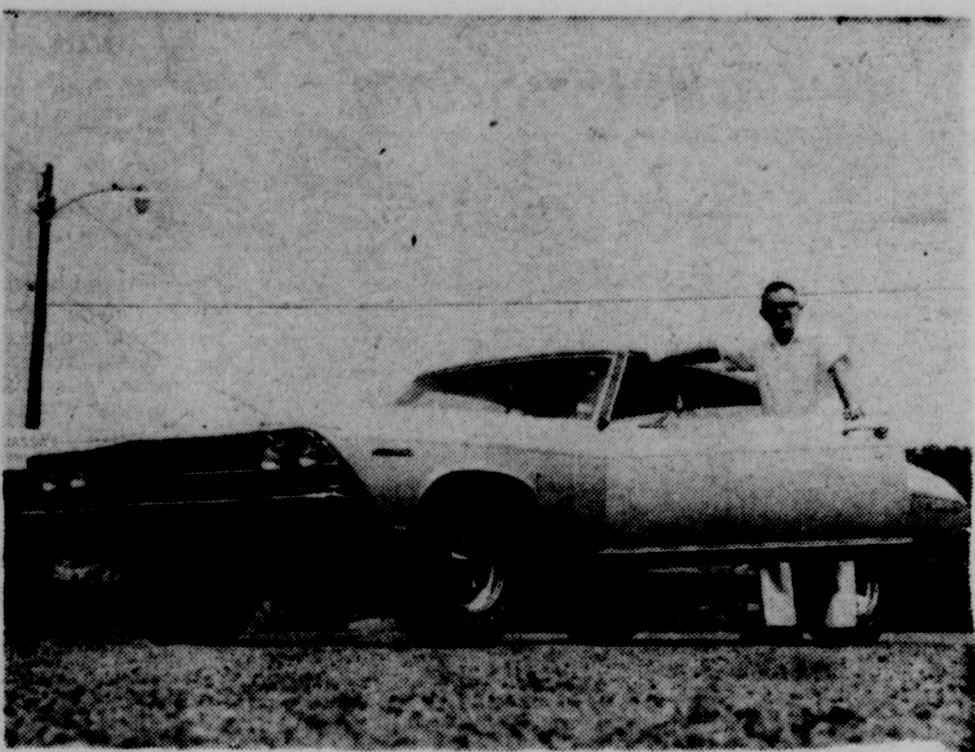

Miller's play is one that will give a great deal of pleasure to many people. You won't be bored with "The Price," so plan now to reserve seats by calling 679-2015. Group rates are also available.

IN MAKE-UP FOR DON QUIXOTE role in "Man of La Mancha," David Atkinson sports false chin whiskers — but moustache is the real, home-grown variety. With him in this scene from the smash musical hit is Patricia Marand, his co-star in the national touring company. "La Mancha" ends its run at Woodstock Playhouse with performances tonight and tomorrow evening; will be followed by Arthur Miller's "The Price," opening Tuesday.

Zippy Life-Style of Midnight Riders

ZOOOOOOOM — ZOOOOOOOM
— BANG — BANG — POP —
POP — VAROOOM — ZOOOOOM
— BANG!

It goes zipping past you late one night as you drowsily drive home from the second half of a double feature or an out-of-town party.

"What was that, Harry?" asks the little lady in the passenger's seat.

"I'm not sure!" Harry says to his spouse. "Whatever it was, it made one whale of a lot of noise for something so nice and shiny looking. I'll have to remember to ask Rex tomorrow. He knows everything about anything that's on the road."

Shedding Some Light

Next day, baffled old Dad asks youngest son Rex if he can shed a little light on what his dotting parents might have seen last night.

And Rex, in turn, has a few questions of his own for Pop. Did it have big, wide tires and shiny chrome wheels? Did it make loud noises and glimmer brightly through the summer night? Did it zip by so fast, it was impossible to tell its color?

And Dad agrees all this was true. Shine it did—as bright as any flying saucer.

"Well," says hip young Rex, "you and Mom saw one of the most expensive cars in the whole city last night. That just happened to be a bona fide member of the 'After Midnight Riders.'"

Kingston's Midnight Riders is not officially a club, but the name is totally descriptive. Pretty much a select group, all Riders take pride in customizing or dressing up their autos with Mag wheels, and wide oval tires with raised letters. The whitewall is no longer in . . . it's all washed up and out of style with this mod group.

Dual Exhaust a 'Must'

No Rider would hit the road without a dual exhaust. And no Rider would back out of the driveway without jazzing up his car to make it move faster and earn it an enviable reputation as sharp-looking with the "with-it" people, of whom he considers himself a dues-paying member.

Four on the floor (a manual or standard shift with four speeds forward) is always a must for the true speedster. Once considered bad news, automatic transmissions are now in vogue, having proved themselves able to stay with the speed shifters.

Tempo had a look this week at one of the nicest-looking, sweetest-sounding, but not necessarily fastest cars in town this week. Interested in breaking down the cost factor, we came up with this info.

This dream car listed for $4,100 new. It came with a 350 cubic inch, 250 horsepower engine. Gas was fed through a two-barrel carburetor. It emerged from the factory equipped with air-conditioning, automatic transmission, power steering, vinyl roof, tinted glass, and lots of other "little" extras.

And Still More

Since purchasing the car, the owner has added other items—all of which proved costly since he hired someone else to handle their installation. First, he switched from a two-barrel carb to a four-barrel, which meant new manifold and linkage at a cost of $235. Also needed was a new air cleaner.

Still more additions followed: Mag wheels and raised letter wide ovals at $420; dual exhaust system with resonators at $215. A change of camshafts added to the bill.

To date, the owner has $4,870 tied up in his auto. Pretty expensive in view of the fact that he'll never really get any of the extra money lavished on his car back when it comes time to trade. Chances are he'll get less unless he finds someone who thinks he can't live without it.

Another little number seen often on the Kingston streets these days is a hot shot black Chevy-Malibu sporting close to a dozen stickers on the side of one window. Stickers bear the legend, "Winner of Class," meaning the car has won in the class in which it has raced. Any Midnight Rider will tell you it's a really hip car and that its youthful owner has every right to be proud of it.

Far from being speed demons, 99 per cent of all Midnight Riders are concerned with safety. The vast majority have never been involved in an accident and they have nothing but disdain for hot rodders whose claim to fame is testing how fast they can zoom up and down the streets.

Drag Strip Buffs

The Midnighters are more interested in saving their speed for the all-out drag strips. Often challenged by other drivers to a drag, they counter with, "See you at the strip this weekend."

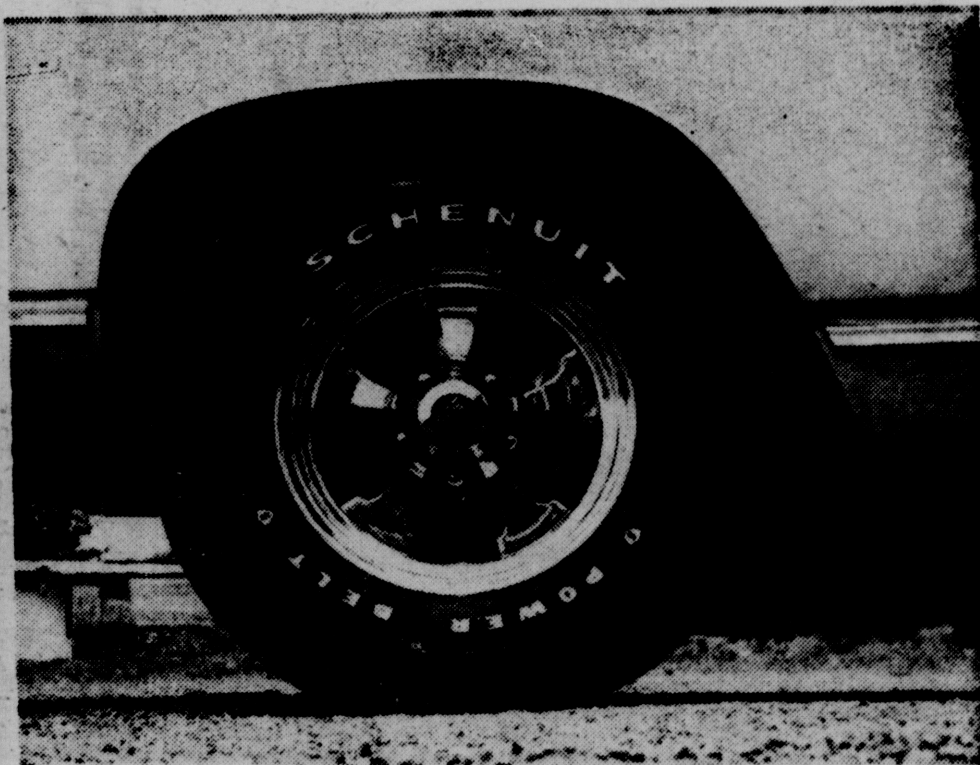

Dual exhaust systems have been known to evoke ire in city, state and county lawmen because of the backfiring from baffles in the mufflers. But Riders insist that if you give a listen in the city streets, you'll find their cars are not too loud. Compare 'em with trucks and motorcycles on the highways and byways, they say, and you'll have to admit they make no more noise than the vans, pickups, panels and sputter bikes.

Members of most of the younger groups work hard to earn the money to make their cars attractive with a modish look. The cost comes high and they can be expected to feel strongly about being accused of traffic violations unless they have intentionally broken the law.

And now you know what Harry and his ever-loving saw ZOOOOOMING, VAROOOOOMING, BANGING and POPPING by as they motored home after midnight. Almost any night after the witching hour, you'll probably see five or six of these zippy models making the scene on Broadway.

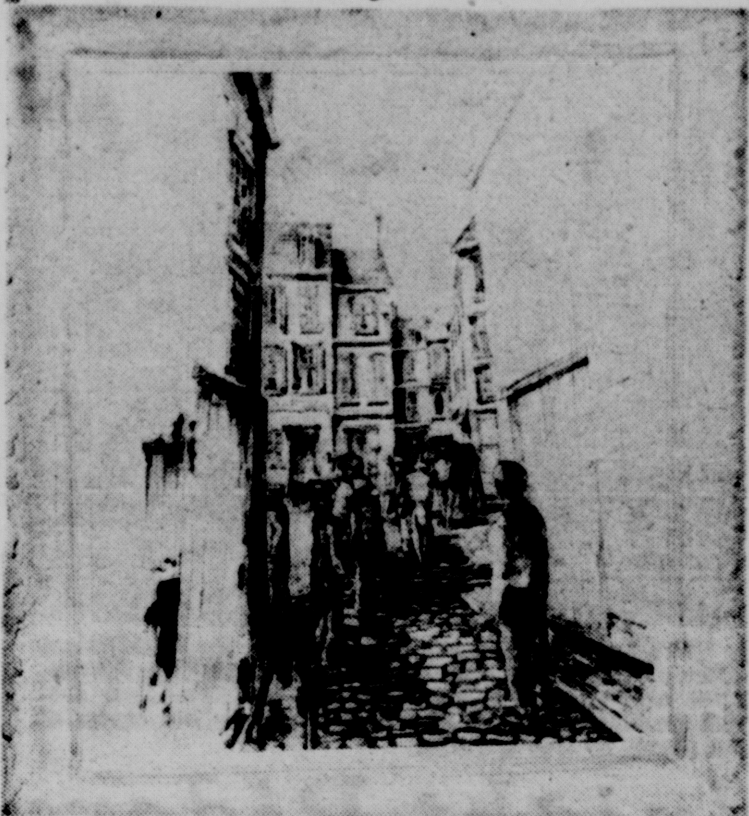

FOUR BARREL ROCHESTER CARBURETOR provides approximately 25 to 30 horsepower more, on the 350 cubic inch engine. New manifold had to be installed when making modification.

THE BIG WHEEL: A camera close-up of the big, wide oval shows the raised lettering of the Schenuit tire. Buffs admire the fact that it's set off by Keystone Mag Wheels.

Gallery Scene

"DAY'S END" (Les Halles) a print by Woodstock Artist Louis Wolchonok is among the many interesting works in the current retrospective show now on view at Jarvis Gallery, Broadview Road, Woodstock. The public is always welcome at no admission charge, and the present display pays special tribute to several local and area painters and sculptors of exceptional talent. The exhibit may be seen now through Labor Day Weekend from 1 to 6 p. m. daily. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

WITH THE CHUNKY LOOK of a sculpture in oil, this painting by Woodstock Artist Gladys Brodsky takes as its polar theme the merging and melding of the man-woman relationship. Along with the wooden sculpture works of David Stoltz, the Brodsky canvases are now on view in an exhibit to run through Labor Day at Stoltz Gallery, Deming Street, Woodstock. (Freeman photo by Haines).

"WINTER SCENE" is the logical title for this oil painting—and that is indeed what Artist Ronald Hicenbotham has called his impressive landscape. A large number of his recent canvases may be seen currently through part of September at Kingston's Delano's Gallery, 268 Fair Street. It's a colorful, atmospheric show of landscapes and portraits by the area artist. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

From Workshop: Take Home Kiln

A Kiln building workshop, previously announced in TEMPO, has set its opening date for Sept. 21. The workshop will be offered in Woodstock by Frank Colson; promises five days of active participation in the art of building gas-fired ceramic kilns.

Colson will come to Woodstock direct from Ireland, where he is slated to demonstrate his innovative techniques to the World Craft Conference. His methods are detailed in an article he authored in the current issue of Craft Horizons magazine.

For the Woodstock workshop, he will teach those interested in taking the class how to build four different kinds of kilns. Students will actually build the kilns during sessions; will be able to make a take home kiln if they so desire.

For those interested in designing their own kiln, the workshop offers an opportunity to take advantage of expert professional assistance in designing and planning during the short course. For further information, contact: Sylvia Hutchins, 21 Hemlock Lane, Woodstock, N.Y. 12496.

It is at once a robust reminder of Nature's beauty, and a construction that defies the precarious laws of balance and gravity.

A Technical Bravura

It never fails to capture the imagination of those who see it for the first time. Brash, opulent, vigorous and of strong compositional thrust, it is an encounter with dedication and Center. So, go and enjoy.

In its astonishing geometric variety, it seems always to be in continuous and shifting motion, no small feat indeed for a monument of stoic stone. This is potent and pioneering landscape art, alive with one man's philosophic ideals. To see it is a moving experience, and that experience can be yours Sept. 6, when Opus 40 goes on display from 1-5 p.m. in a conducted tour viewing to benefit Kingston's Children's Rehabilitation Center. So, go and enjoy.

CANDICE BERGEN manages to melt her "snow queen image" in "Getting Straight," currently showing at Kingston's Community, Hyde Park's Roosevelt, and Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In. She and Elliott Gould play college students in the film which deals with campus unrest. It's a horror story with humor and an upbeat ending.

MOVIES

Woodstock

Sitting on a hillside in the rain with 400,000 other people and listening to a continuous outpouring of sad and staccato acid rock may not be everyone's idea of history in the making.

But . . . phenomenon or disaster, painful pilgrimage or ecstatic adventure . . . Woodstock — and what happened there — has become sort of a joyous symbol of a new generation and, possibly, a form of keystone to a new decade.

In spite of press reports of no food, little water, torrential rains and bad drug trips, it was also a fact that the incredible army of young people who had trekked in from every corner of the nation — were not only staying put, but openly and quite obviously, were having the most glorious, carefree and momentous time of their lives.

As with many other moments of history, many did not hear about Woodstock until it was all over. Now you can see this festival that turned into a sociological phenomenon as it was recorded on film while it was happening. The result — "Woodstock" — now well into its second week at the local 9-W Drive-In, proves to be not only a highly entertaining motion picture, but a shattering and fascinating contemporary document on our life and time.

Patton

George C. Scott gives a towering performance as General George S. Patton in "Patton," the World War II movie held over for a second week at both Kingston's Mayfair and the Hyde Park Drive-In.

A fine film destined to stand as a classic, it focuses on the triumphs and tribulations of the controversial and almost perfect warrior who became a legend within his time. A fascinating study of both a man and his era, it is a factual, stunning accomplishment.

Scott totally dominates the screen; is our hands-down nomination for this year's Academy Award.

Getting Straight

This film is proving big at the box-office. So big it's being held over for a second week at three area movie-houses; Kingston's Community, Hyde Park's Roosevelt, and Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In.

Its biggest selling point is a fine performance by Elliott Gould.

Basically a "youth" film about campus revolt, it also gives more than a little insight into the student rebellion movement that has spread throughout the U.S. Its story is said to be a carbon copy of actual events, and it is a serious attempt to explain the conflicts between the establishment and campus communities.

The Out-of-Towners

New York City — sometimes called Fun City — looks more like Horror City in this comedy, playing currently at the Rosendale Theatre.

It's all in the interests of fun, however, and movie-goers will be amused by the antics of Jack Lemmon and Sandy Dennis as two hayseeds from Ohio battling New York's congested airports, muggings in the park, transit strikes, sanitation strikes, and such.

Catastrophes and mishaps mount relentlessly for this mixed-up, hard luck couple as they encounter more than a few

Overlook Mountain Watercolor at KSB

Overlook Mountain, "a spot to make a man solemnize," was mentioned several times in the writings of James Fenimore Cooper. It was from Overlook that Bolton C. Brown spotted "the likeliest and loveliest valley in the State of New York" and established the Woodstock Colony for artists.

This is one of four watercolors by John Pike created especially for the Kingston Savings Bank and now on display in the Bank's 273 Wall Street lobby.

Portraits & Painting Slated at New Paltz

Art is on the upsurge in New Paltz, with an exciting year in store.

A decision by the Continuing Education Department at the State University there will provide two rooms for the 54-member New Paltz Art Association in the Smiley Art Building this year. This will mean class courses on both Monday and Tuesday nights for the local art group.

The Paltz Art Association will utilize the space for its previously announced Portrait class; will offer to a second group of beginners and semi-experienced students a class in the general area of Painting. The latter class will begin in late September; run for 12 lesson periods.

Dr. Henry P. Raleigh, head of the Art Department at Paltz, will teach the upcoming Painting class. He came from New York City's Pratt Institute in 1968 to join the New Paltz faculty; is a native New Yorker with a varied background in many eastern seaboard art schools.

Will Meet Tuesdays

He will bring to the Paltz Association's new Painting course much experience in the field of art education, based on his teaching experience and his exhibitions in many galleries. His general course for beginners and semi-experienced artists will be held at the college on Tuesdays when it begins in late September.

The class in Portraits is a new venture for the Association this season; is being offered for the first time in its history. Slated to meet Monday nights, it will be taught by prominent Woodstock artist Franklin Alexander, a frequent exhibitor in national and international shows.

Size of this class will be limited to 15, with 11 already registered. The Raleigh painting class has already enrolled 14 interested beginners. This means that, already, the necessary number of people to make the classes a reality has been registered. With enrollment limited, those interested in either the Portraits or Painting courses should immediately contact Mrs. Marjorie Sheldon, 3 Paradise Lane, New Paltz, N. Y. 12561 (phone 255-1675), or Mrs. Marie Petersen, Gardiner, N. Y. (phone 255-0597).

A Crisp Color Marks His Work

The artist currently exhibiting his paintings at Phoenicia Library signs his work "Munro." Off-canvas, he is Donald Munro Smith, a resident of Baltimore, Maryland, who spends his summer vacations in the Phoenicia area each year.

A graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute with a degree in Architecture, he has long been interested in painting and drawing. He most enjoys working with watercolors, and it is a medium in which he excels. His landscapes are crisp with color and sparkling with vitality, and many of the works in the Phoenicia Library show are salutes to the natural beauty of the area landscape in and near Phoenicia and Allaben.

Area residents who see the show will recognize various Iron Bridge near the Shandaken Town Hall, a pool in Peck Hollow, and others — all beautifully represented.

They Call Them 'Phenomenal' With Good Reason

Attesting to the anticipation any performance by this group arouses, inquiries have poured in from as far afield as Virginia. Many music lovers are expected to drive long distances when they appear at Woodstock's Maverick Hall this Sunday, Aug. 30 at 3 p.m. That's when an exciting and totally satisfying program of Haydn, Brahms and Ravel will be presented by the phenomenal Philharmonia Trio. Many remember the Trio's fascinating exploration of chamber music during four concerts at the Maverick in 1965 in celebration of the rustic hall's Golden Anniversary year.

With triumphal musicianship, the group presented a cross section of the universal trio literature, ending with premier of trio works by Woodstock composers Henry Cowell and Alexander Semmler. Laureate Prize Winner This highly talented group includes violinist Charles Libove, trained at Curtis Institute and Juilliard School of Music; a Cassals Festival participant; former member of the acclaimed Beaux Arts Quartet; a Laureate Prize winner who has toured globally and been in residence at Italy's prestigious Spoleto Festival. Another member is Nina Lugovoy, often called "the incredible pianist," and a veteran of Maverick performances. Her musicianship is warm, sensitive, flawless and exciting, and she has toured the U.S. in solo concerts as well as with the Philharmonic. New to the group this year is Brazil born cellist Aldo Parisot, replacing Alan Shulman. A music student since the age of seven, he debuted at 12 playing the Haydn Concerto; was with the Brazilian Symphony for five years; and, as founder of the Jacovinto Quartet, introduced works by renowned composer Villa-Lobos. Since coming to this country, he has been a solo guest artist with every major U.S. symphony orchestra; is now on the Yale University music faculty. Critics have applauded his "beautiful tone, perceptive musicianship, warmth of temperament." The Philharmonia has been in residence at Canada's Stratford Festival; is now in residence at Potsdam's State University of New York. This Sunday afternoon at the Maverick, the talented threesome will exhibit technical wizardry over the difficult and exacting chamber music repertoire. Promising a sensitive and appealing performance, they could well prove that chamber music is the "IN Thing."

PHILHARMONIA TRIO performers include (L-R) violinist Charles Libove, pianist Nina Lugovoy, and cellist Aldo Parisot. Trio will bring a program of Haydn, Brahms and Ravel to the Maverick Concert this Sunday afternoon.

Berkshire Music Center Receives $75,000 Grant

Talcott M. Banks, President of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Board of Trustees, announced that a bequest of $75,000 has been received by the Orchestra from the estate of Mrs. Marian D. Granrud of Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Granrud left the bequest "with the hope that it will be used at one time, or from time to time, for the Berkshire Music Center, the Orchestra's summer academy, with financial and audience support".

Mr. Banks further announced that the Trustees recently voted the bequest be used to establish 'The Marian D. Granrud Fund.' The Granrud Fund will bring an artist-in-residence or an instructor to the Berkshire Music Center for special seminars, workshops and master classes. This summer, soprano Phyllis Curtin is the Granrud Artist-in-Residence and is giving Master Classes 10 hours each week during the eight-week Tanglewood season.

GEORGE C. SCOTT as General George S. Patton Jr. leads the Third Army in a spectacular breakthrough in Normandy, his three stars displayed on his tank. Scene is from PATTON, the superlative World War II movie continuing for a second week at both Kingston's Mayfair, and Hyde Park Drive-In.

quaint characters in the Big Town.

Rider on the Rain

At the New Paltz Cinema currently, Charles Bronson is proving what we've always known—that he's one of the finest actors performing in films today.

He shows his exceptional versatility in "Rider on the Rain," starring in an excellent suspense-filled terror-and-sunlight thriller about murder. Directed by the masterful Rene Clement, its plot revolves around mysterious strangers and a lovely young housewife who refuses to tell the truth.

Hello, Dolly!

Area admirers of Barbra Streisand and Walter Matthau are conceivably champing at the bit to see this lavish musical. "Dolly" will eventually make its way to Kingston stamping grounds some time this fall, and most of us will have to content ourselves with waiting until then.

For our Dutchess County readers, however, and Ulsterites so eager to see this melodic hit that they are willing to travel down the road apiece, "Dolly" has opened for a lengthy run at Poughkeepsie's Juliet Theatre.

For the record, it's all about the richest and meanest man in Yonkers, N.Y. (Matthau) and the brassily elegant matchmaker (Streisand) who manages to snare him for her own. It's a stage classic brought to the screen.

Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice

Lots of laughs in this film, now featured at the Lyceum in Red Hook. Handsome Robert Culp of TV's "I Spy" series and glamorous Natalie Wood are well cast as a swinging couple. Elliott Gould and Dyan Cannon are priceless as their square friends.

A slightly sexy comedy with lots of charm, it's a slick, sophisticated comment on current morality—a funny tale about wife-swapping that ends up as non-swapping. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

PLACES TO DINE & DANCE

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

If the dining room ceiling of Mohonk Mountain House had a skylight, diners could watch the angels in action. And not only is the cupola so high in the clouds, but if one peered out spacious picture window — REALLY looked hard — he could see Europe or at least the coast of Maine.

Straight out of an early 1900 novel, guests live at about that same pace: mid-afternoon tea, dinner at 6:30, then a leisurely hour on the porch, rocking away time and cares in comfortable armchairs.

Of course, for diversion there's the colorful garden or a ride in horse-drawn carriage, a sail on fantastically clear lake, a swim — if one's up to it, a jaunt on horseback over wooded trails (there may even be a left-over Indian or two still makin' heap big wigwam there). For kicks, there's a lecture or special musical program, a good book from Mohonk library, a seat in a private gazebo, summer breezes, tasty food.

It's an antique dealer's delight with natural varnished woods, luxurious velvet-cushioned furniture, massive fire places, unique vases, monstrous natural rocks, portraits — from early century presidents to Mohonk's Old Boys' Golf Club — pictures of Mohonk Fairs, 1918 to 1969, and on Sunday, Aug. 16, an extra bonus when the night-blooming cereus blossomed under a spotlight in the garden near the goldfish pond.

Dinner reservations are paid at the gatehouse before one starts the final climb by car to Mountain House. All meals are five dollars. An attendant parks the car as maitre D'hotel leads guests to their reserved table.

Madrilene, braised sirloin tips of beef and mushrooms in casserole, roast young turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, pan broiled fillet of blue fish, parsley butter, among other entrees; snowflake potatoes, baked puree of sweet potatoes with marshmallows, creamed silver onions, avocado-orange - grapefruit salad, strawberry-rhubarb pie, Royal Anne cherries in syrup, fresh blueberries and Mohonk Darjeeling or Oolong tea.

Guests travel hundreds of miles to vacation at scenic site which doesn't know meaning of word smog. 'Tho likin' a bit-of-booze isn't breakin' the law, at Mohonk nobody-but-NOBODY gets a chance to get creamed. Alcohol just ain't-on-the-menu. It's amazing that more local connoisseurs don't take advantage of all resort has to offer. Frequented by the affluent, a day at Mohonk makes one FEEL like a millionaire without actually being one!

August 26 was American Women's 50th anniversary of Women's Suffrage — the birthday of 19th amendment. And one thing's for sure: during 1970, all men stood-on-their-own-two-feet. It was impossible to hide behind a woman's skirt... there just wasn't room, unless he was a Tom Thumb in elevator-shoes, that is.

Speakin' of Women's Lib Movement, Pam Carson claims on 129th day before Christmas — August 16, to be exact — a Women's Lib version of Santa Claus was unveiled at Westchester Flea Market where Kristina Kringle in red mini-Santa suit distributed gifts. (MRS. Spiro Agnew watches, undoubtedly.)

Speakin' of yuletide, Jim Thompson's Scarborough Fair gift shoppe opened yesterday just in time for early holiday shoppers. Maybe that's where (Dr.?) Tony Bell got his "Forgive Harry Thayer" pin?

Back to MGM

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Keenan Wynn and Roddy McDowall, both under contract to MGM in the days of Louis B. Mayer, will revisit the studio to appear in an episode of the "Medical Center" television series.

Connie Joins 'Gang'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Connie Stevens has joined Kim Darby, Scott Wilson and Robert Lansing in Bob Aldrich's "The Grissom Gang."

Powerful Combo

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Three powerful movie names will combine to make Universal's western drama "Shootout": producer Hal B. Wallis, director Henry Hathaway and Gregory Peck.

Jerry's Film Debut

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jerry Orbach, star of Broadway's "Promises, Promises," will make his motion picture debut in "A Fan's Notes" at Warner Bros.

The 1970 State Fair: It's What's Happening

This year's "Empire Happening," the 1970 New York State Fair in Syracuse, is where the action will be Sept. 1-7.

Some half a million people are expected to flock to the 360-acre Fairgrounds site just west of the Syracuse City limits off Route 690. Once there, they'll find colorful country potpourri of sports, animal competitions, exhibits, music and much more.

Inside the gates, all attractions are free except the Stock Car Races. And on the first two days of the Fair, Sept. 1 and 2, student tickets admit children 16 and under free of charge. Kiddies 12 and under are free every day.

Free Star Shows

Empire Court, the Fair's outdoor entertainment center, will feature 35 free star shows including Liberace, the keyboard artist of glittering raiment, glowing candelabra upon a glass-topped piano, and musical virtuosity. One of the five top paid entertainers in the world, Liberace has been booked by the Fair for Sept. 3 and 4.

Other stars will include popular singers B. J. Thomas and Gary Puckett, and comedian George Gobel and Festus. Jazz musician Lionel Hampton, who played at four inaugural balls for three Presidents of the U.S., brings his band to the Fair Sept. 3-6. On Labor Day, Sept. 7, the Dottie West Show and Hank Williams Jr. with "The Cheatin' Hearts" will perform 100 per cent country music. Also slated: TV's The Burgundy Street Singers and the Irish Rovers of "The Unicorn" fame.

In addition to all this stellar entertainment, the Fair will host the King Kovacs Auto Daredevil stunt drivers and Johnny Rivers' high-diving mules.

Competition, of course, provides the core for the traditionally agriculturally-based Fair and this year over $500,000 in premiums is being offered in hundreds of contests from apple pie baking to tractor pulling!

Old-Fashioned Auction

A high point will be an old-fashioned beef cattle auction Sept. 4 at 1 p.m. at which champion carcasses, both Choice and Prime, will be sold. Sunday night, farm animal champions

HANK WILLIAMS Jr. will set the State Fair's Empire Court to vibrating on Labor Day, Sept. 7, with the plaintive songs and dancing rhythm of country music when he takes over the outdoor theater shell to perform 100 per cent country music.

of all kinds will "march" in the "Parade of Champions" in the Coliseum.

An attraction not to be missed in the Dairy Building is a life-size sculpture utilizing 700 pounds of butter. It's a portrait of an old-fashioned girl churning butter.

The Fair's International Horse Show is one of the largest and best in the U.S., rivaling even Madison Square Garden. Held in the Coliseum daily, it will see more than 1,350 horses of various breeds and training and over 4,000 separate entries vying for $33,237 in prize money.

Adding a touch of majesty to this year's Fair will be the Sept. 2 State Horse Pulling Contest, and the Royal Canadian Mounties horseback drill team performing their "Musical Ride." Every evening of the horse show will feature 25 minutes of the Mounties with matinee performances Saturday.

LIONEL HAMPTON, "King of the Vibes" and "Master of the Drums," will appear at the 1970 State Fair in Empire Court Thursday, Sept. 3 through Sunday, Sept. 6.

"Brush-in," and a "Type-In" competition on Opening Day, at the Hall of Health; a Fantasyland in Art; and four performances daily of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Cinderella" in the Children's Theatre.

In the Indian Village, there'll be daily ceremonial folk dances and tribal "happenings," along with a Six Nation Band Concert Sept. 4. The midway is bigger this year, and the Witter Agricultural Museum with crafts demonstrations daily will show fair-goers how their ancestors made it "happen."

Flower Power

There'll be a team of veterinarians performing surgical operations to acquaint the public with their brand of medicine and, at the flower show, "flower power" will prevail in the Horticulture Building. Free baked potatoes may be had from the Potato Booth, and teens and their parents will enjoy the High School Marching Band

A talent show for amateur performers every evening is a popular attraction. Add a Square Dance Festival, the State Championship Horseshoe Pitching Contest, dog obedience classes, youth shows, and the biggest U.S. Farm Machinery and Home Equipment Show, and you know why so many will visit the 1970 New York State Fair—It's what's happening!

Any day's a good day to go, but opening day will see a colorful sidelight when a group of beauty queens release thousands of balloons and the 6'9" "Quacky the Clown" entertains with his antics.
